

American Indian Resource Center
Amah Mutsun Speaker Series

Native Histories, Colonial Lives and the Archaeology of Post-Mission
Landscape in California

1:00 - 3:00 PM

Saturday, May 20, 2017

Kresge Town Hall

Tsim Schneider is a Citizen of the Federated Indians of Graton Rancheria and assistant professor of anthropology at UCSC.

An archaeological and historical overview of California's "Indigenous hinterlands" as critical sources of power and social resiliency.

Looking at locations around San Francisco Bay where Native people found safe harbor from the missions, the talk will explore the very latest discoveries from an ongoing project investigating a post-mission trading post at Tomales Bay. Here, eyewitness accounts suggest Indigenous Coast Miwok people and others continued traditional hunting and gathering practices, they held dances and mourning rituals, and they participated in the hide and tallow trade.

Free parking in West Core Parking Structure. Some walking required from the parking structure to the building.
For additional information and disability or access needs please contact the Ethnic Resource Centers: 831-459-2427